

Why The Hotels are Safer comparing to other accommodation alternatives?

1. The Number of Executives

It requires a very good organisation skills to follow and to manage the existing and to set the new regulations so, the number of the executives really matters in this sense. For example if you consider an individual rent house; it also has air conditioning, pool, garden, kitchen etc. so do you think that such facilities could be controlled and recorded professionally? Who do you call on if anything unusual happens regarding the nowadays topic Covit 19? So the number executives matter...

2. Mentally Ready Staff

Our staff is well trained for many years and familiar with disinfection processes. They know about the chemicals and their application methods so, they will easily catch on the new procedures.

3. Working With Quality Management Systems

This is actually the infrastructure. From the very first producer to the end customer all processes are already instructed and controlled within the QMS. So we will not start over but add the post pandemi procedures on our infrastructure.

4. Third Party Audits

Health and safety issues in most the hotels are checked by governmental and private organisations regularly and sometimes unannounced. We are always ready to serve not only because of the audits we may experience but because we believe in flowless service at any time.

5. Close Relations And Integrated Emergency And Crises Management with Hospitals And Other Authorities if needed.

Incase of the worst scenario we, as the hotel and our health provider partners know what to do

Nothing happens with a finger click.. the background must be there to be able to improve or add on something.

<https://youtu.be/nvquHNpncg>